this book represents an important next step in the new institutional economics using this perspective it undertakes a thorough re examination of the problems of development barry r weingast stanford university us institutions economic performance and the visible hand is a wide ranging well written and provocative contribution to the study of political and economic organization ashok chakravarti advances arguments and interpretations that are both interesting and often controversial although i find myself arguing with many of them this is one of the many virtues of the book i recommend the book to others who have an interest in institutional economics why it is important where it has been and where it is going oliver e williamson nobel laureate in economics university of california berkeley us this is an ambitious and wide ranging book which seeks to overthrow the minimalist view of the role of institutions in economic systems contained in the standard economic model and instead advocates a more active institution building effort to promote the development of poor countries this important contribution is to review and consolidate the themes and issues that emerge from a very large literature on the subject of institutions and economic development and to coherently formulate hypotheses relating institutions to economic performance this should be useful to a wide range of scholars john toyne university of oxford uk this timely study convincingly argues that it is not resources but the institutions which govern the interaction and decision making of economic and political agents that are the key factor in determining the economic performance of nations the book challenges the conventional wisdom on the determinants of economic performance and provides an alternative vision of the functioning of an economic system the author provides a structured survey which critically evaluates the theory and evidence of neoclassical approaches to growth and development he then skillfully integrates insights from the old and new institutional economics into an original and comprehensive vision of the relationship between institutions growth and economic development institutions economic performance and the visible hand will be of special interest to academics financial analysts and commentators staff of international development agencies and ngos researchers and post graduate students traditionally economists have attributed consistency and rational calculation to the action of economic man in a powerful challenge to orthodox thinking geoffrey hodgson maintains that social institutions play a central and essential role in molding preferences and guiding action institutions are regarded as enabling action rather than merely providing constraints from this perspective the author takes on the free marketers such as milton friedman and the new institutionalism of oliver williamson he argues against the neo classical and austrian views of the operation of markets offering instead a convincing new synthesis of the work of keynes veblen simon and marx taking up the implications of his argument hodgson calls for a radically new policy perspective based on structural reform and institutional intervention this work will be required reading for economics students in their second and third years and will be of interest to students and academics throughout the social sciences continuing his groundbreaking analysis of economic structures douglass north develops an analytical framework for explaining the ways in which institutions and institutional change affect the performance of economies both at a given time and over time institutions exist he argues due to the uncertainties involved in human interaction they are the constraints devised to structure that interaction yet institutions vary widely in their consequences for economic performance some economies develop institutions that produce growth and development while others develop institutions that produce stagnation north first explores the nature of institutions and explains the role of transaction and production costs in their development the second part of the book deals with institutional change institutions create the incentive structure in an economy and organisations will be created to take advantage of the opportunities provided within a given institutional framework north argues that the kinds of skills and knowledge fostered by the structure of an economy will shape the direction of change and gradually alter the institutional framework he then explains how institutional development may lead to a path dependent pattern of development in the final part of the book north explains the implications of this analysis for economic theory and economic history he indicates how institutional analysis must be incorporated into neo classical theory and explores the potential for the construction of a dynamic theory of long term economic change douglass c north is director of the center of political economy and professor of economics and history at washington university in st louis he is a past president of the economic history association and western economics association and a fellow american academy of arts and sciences he has written over sixty articles for a variety of journals and is the author of the rise of the western world a new economic history cup 1973 with r p thomas and structure and change in economic history norton 1981 professor north is included in great economists since keynes edited by m blaug cup 1988 paperback ed new institutional economics nie has skyrocketed in scope and influence over the last three decades this first handbook of nie provides a unique and timely overview of recent developments and broad orientations contributions analyse the domain and perspectives of nie sections on legal institutions political institutions transaction cost economics governance contracting institutional change and more capture nie s interdisciplinary nature this handbook will be of interest to economists political scientists legal scholars management specialists sociologists and others wishing to learn more about this important subject and gain insight into progress made by institutionalists from other disciplines this compendium of analyses by some of the foremost nie specialists including ronald coase douglass north elinor ostrom and oliver williamson gives students and new researchers an introduction to the topic and offers established scholars a reference book for their research this book offers a strong contribution to the growing field of institutional economics going beyond the question of why institutions matter and examines the ways in which different types of institutions are conducive to the enhancement of competitiveness and economic development adopting a variety of approaches ranging from new institutional economics public choice constitutional political economy and austrian economics to more traditional economic approaches contributors examine the important issues of interest to development economics this book asks whether democracy is a pre condition for economic development what the proper role of government is in the age of globalization and whether successful government led policies were the cause of south korea s economic development as well as these key questions the book covers the issues of whether the government should rely on the market process to encourage economic development or must they interfere and by what criteria one can judge a proposal for policies for economic prosperity the book tries to make a contribution by introducing a variety of perspective some argue in favour of industrial policies while others argue for a lesser role for the government and a greater entrepreneurial freedom some question the wisdom of promoting democracy as a necessary condition for economic development while others argue that political liberalization is the basis of lasting competitive edge of an economy the book should be of great interest to students and researchers in need of a multi perspective collection covering several approaches to the issues of institutional economics and national competition this publication discusses the impact of institutions on economic development and the determinants that shape institutional quality using a new institutional economics nie model based on a multidisciplinary approach to understanding issues including growth efficiency and income distribution using the experience of argentina under the menem government as a case study a methodology is developed and applied to test theoretical hypotheses regarding the concept of institutional quality and how delineation between economic and political institutions work in practice it also considers systems of democracy and autocracy and the impact of traditional legal and cultural frameworks on institutional efficiency this book approaches markets as a dynamic ensemble of institutions and as a set of rules or norms that contribute to the evolution of social systems of governance and can be analysed as a structured social system it tackles such questions as where do markets come from and what drives their evolution how do organizations cope with the competitive dynamism of markets what is the role of governance mechanisms in the institutional coordination of markets using this new institutionalist approach an international group of leading scholars examine the institutional foundations of economic change drawn from an array of disciplines including business organization studies economics and sociology the contributors address the organizational capabilities of firms the social structuration of competition and the diversity of governance mechanisms in the market contributors include nikolaus beck christophe boone robert boyer alexander ebner neil fligstein henrich r greve john harriss bob hinings geoffrey m hodgson bob jessop alfred kieser namrata malhotra rene e meyer richard r nelson rudolf richter peter walgenbach filippo carlo wezel sidney g winter and arjen van witteloostuijn
